

Bushfires are a very real and dangerous threat in our area.

It is important for us to be prepared. Go to the Rural Fire Service website www.rfs.nsw.gov.au Talk to your local RFS volunteers.

Be aware of local conditions such as access, availability of power, phone and water during a fire.

Be aware that some plants are less flammable than others and total clearing of land may not be necessary to reduce the fire threat.

There are local companies that can help you with all of this.

Building Code and Bushfire Hazard Solutions

<http://www.bushfirehazardsolutions.com.au> or

Go to The Fire Protection Association Australia for list of accredited members.

<http://www.fpaa.com.au>

For more detailed information and other useful links

Go to our website: www.Stillcreeklandcare.com.au

This publication has been funded by the Australian Government under a Caring for Our Country grant. We are independent of government and other agencies but have the support of these organisations: